

WDT Core Ability	Program Learning Outcomes
Life Skills	Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Exhibit exceptional life skills in the environmental engineering field by adopting a positive work/life balance, accepting responsibility for one's own actions, demonstrating proper time management, and modeling effective personal values in relation to the work environment.
Analytic Techniques	Students will be able to : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Conduct environmental investigations through collecting samples and by accurately interpreting and compiling results into databases.
Communication Skills	Students will be able to: Demonstrate professional communication skills in the environmental engineering field by using acceptable communication, and by producing accurate and concise documents.
Technology Skills	Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Utilize existing technologies in the environmental engineering field by successfully accessing and using various databases, effectively operating field equipment, and by demonstrating the proficient use of multi-media sources and software.
Teamwork Techniques	Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Demonstrate the ability to function as a productive member of an environmental investigations team by successfully completing assigned tasks, demonstrating respectful interaction with others, and participating in problem solving processes.
Social Values	Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Exhibit an awareness of diversity in the environmental engineering field by working collaboratively with others from diverse backgrounds, and by successfully relating different points of view.
Employability	Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Exhibit essential employability skills in the environmental engineering field through the production of high-quality work, modeling the attributes of reliability and dependability, and conducting one's self in a professional manner.